

Elsie Area Food Pantry Gets Milk Cooler

The Michigan Dairy Farmers thru the United Dairy Industry have awarded the Elsie Area Food Pantry a dairy cooler as part of the (UDIM) cooler grant program. The program provides local food pantries with a refrigeration unit to help store milk and dairy foods at proper temperatures and build capacity to distribute more dairy.

Dennis Baese nominated the Elsie Area Food Pantry to receive the milk cooler, along with funds for the food pantry to fill the cooler with milk at delivery. Lucille Stephens, Director of the Elsie Food Pantry stated, "We would like to thank Michigan Dairy Farmers for providing us with this cooler. It will help us in meeting the needs of our community."

In Michigan, one in six people and one in five children are food insecure. Especially now, food pantries play an essential role in helping to bridge this hunger gap as families navigate the effects of the COVID-19 pandemic.

"Our Michigan dairy farmers understand how important it is to get nutritious dairy foods into the hands of people who need them most, especially now at a time when food insecurity is high," said Sharon Toth, CEO of UDIM. "This milk cooler program ensures dairy foods maintain peak freshness while increasing dairy's availability to families in the community."

Elsie Area Food Pantry has received delivery of a cooler, along with a full supply of milk, to increase the availability of fresh, delicious dairy foods for their customers.

More Vaccine Arrives in Mid-Michigan

submitted by Leslie Kinnee

Ithaca, Stanton, St. Johns – Like other Michigan counties, Clinton, Gratiot, and Montcalm will be receiving a small amount of COVID-19 vaccine this week. All of it is the Moderna vaccine. The total number of doses of COVID-19 vaccine expected to come into our district is 9,550. Out of that, Mid-Michigan District Health Department (MMDHD) is receiving 1,100 doses and plans to vaccinate certain essential workers in all our counties this weekend with those doses. The remaining 8,450 doses are primarily going to hospitals.

The health department and hospitals are currently vaccinating those in priority group 1B (over 65 and essential workers) and working to finish vaccinating those in priority group 1A (health care). The health department continues to operate clinics for people over age 65, however, only a small number of doses remain, and all the appointments are taken.

The shortfall in vaccinations is disappointing, but significant work is still being done. The National Guard is finishing up vaccinating staff and employees in adult foster care facilities. CVS Pharmacy is also working on vaccinating people in long-term care facilities throughout the jurisdiction. These two efforts will protect many vulnerable adults at serious risk if exposed to COVID-19.

In addition, some area health care providers and pharmacies have vaccine and have begun to reach out to their patients offering vaccinations. Again, they have only a small amount of vaccine and most people will have to wait a few weeks before they can be vaccinated.

Next week MMDHD will order the Pfizer vaccine and if it is received, will schedule more clinics. Be sure to check our website, www.mmdhd.org, regularly to see if we have openings. You can also sign up to receive an emailed notice of when additional clinics are scheduled. Simply go to www.mmdhd.org and look for the "sign up for updates" section. Facilities with essential workers that wish to be notified when vaccine is available can also sign up there. Residents now have more options for getting vaccinated and can find those on our website, including Sparrow Hospital, Spectrum Health and MidMichigan Medical Center-Gratiot.

There were reports in the media we want to follow up on. It was reported that some vaccines delivered to Michigan may have gone out of temperature range. This did not happen to us and those facilities that did have problems have ordered replacement doses. It was also reported that some people in California had unusual reactions associated with a certain lot of Moderna. Upon further investigation it was found that these reactions were normal, and this lot of vaccine did not come to Michigan.

Mid-Michigan District Health Department serves the residents of Clinton, Gratiot, and Montcalm Counties.

We take action to protect, maintain and improve the health of our community.
Advancing innovative solutions to achieve healthier outcomes.

Our kids are back in school and we look forward to Winter sports happening in Ashley, Laingsburg and Ovid-Elsie. We will be previewing all varsity winter sports teams including boys and girls basketball, wrestling, bowling, swimming and competitive cheer. Questioners have gone out to coaches and as soon as we can get team photos for all Winter sports teams we will introduce all of them to you. In addition to team photos, we will include coaches previews, schedules and information as to any restrictions the season may have involving spectators. Also included will be information including WOES broadcasts and streaming availability.

New Date for SAT, March 13th Still Time to Register Your 8th Grader

submitted by Renee Dotson

Are you a parent of an academically talented 8th grader? If so, there are a few seats remaining for the March 13, 2021 SAT test. The Shiawassee Regional Education Service District and the Cook Family Foundation invites you to register your child before February 11, 2021.

To learn all about Shiawassee Scholars, other gifted and talented programs, and how to register for the SAT go to www.sresd.org, Programs, Shiawassee Scholars, SAT Information or <https://www.sresd.org/District/Department/22-Shiawassee-Scholars/Portal/sat-information>.

The top 50 eighth grade students in the county who achieve at the highest level as determined by their scores on the SAT will be invited to become Shiawassee Scholars! The Shiawassee Scholars program is a collaborative program between the Shiawassee RESD and The Cook Family Foundation. The program recognizes academically talented students early and seeks to encourage these students to continue to pursue academically challenging activities during their high school years. It is the mission of the Shiawassee Scholars program to assist these students through various opportunities, resources, and support to reach their full potential.

If you have any questions, please contact Renee Dotson dotson@sresd.org or 989-743-3471.

Economic Alliance Rebrands as Clinton County Catalyst

submitted by Dru L. Mitchell

DeWitt – The economic and business development agency formerly known as the Clinton County Economic Alliance is officially announcing it has rebranded as Clinton County Catalyst. The Board of Directors recognizes the new name more accurately defines the role the organization plays as a resource to bring about positive change and reinvention throughout Clinton County.

“Clinton County Catalyst is no longer a traditional economic development organization,” said Board Chairman Craig Bishop with TCF Bank. “Our bold efforts aim higher as this organization is a catalyst for Clinton County. A strong economy requires strong leadership. Clinton County Catalyst will lead the county into the future.”

President and CEO Dru L. Mitchell states, “We support continued growth for Clinton County by connecting, constructing, and cultivating success for the communities we serve. We are grateful for the continued support of our members, partners, and friends throughout the region.”

Clinton County Catalyst will continue to act as the lead county-wide economic and business development organization. Clinton County Catalyst provides sustainable and value-added services for business attraction, retention and growth, workforce development, non-traditional agriculture, and next-generation initiatives. Clinton County Catalyst will begin 2021 with a renewed sense of leadership, service, and commitment to the community in Clinton County, Michigan.

Cook Family Foundation

submitted by Yvette Collard

As the difficult year of 2020 comes to a close, the Cook Family Foundation is pleased to announce $90,959 in grants to Shiawassee nonprofit organizations to help them finish the year in the best position to survive and thrive in 2021. These grants were in addition to $43,042 in COVID-related emergency grants earlier this year.

"It has been a tough year for local nonprofits, just as it has been for our small businesses" said Tom Cook, Executive Director of the Cook Family Foundation. "We knew that helping them out would help out our community. We know many people have given extra to local nonprofits this year, and we wanted to do our part."

The grants, averaging about $7,000 each, were given to 15 local nonprofits and the Genesee United Way which serves Shiawassee County. The first grants in March and April helped several nonprofits respond to pressing community needs; an additional $15,000 was provided to the United Way to help address the health and economic emergency. "Several community groups serve those in need, and we wanted to help them provide food, personal protection equipment (PPE), and other support," said Cook. Grants were made to Respite Volunteers of Shiawassee, the Arc of Mid-Michigan, the Downtown Owosso Farmer's Market, and Durand Union Station.

"We were particularly proud to support the initiative of the Durand Union Station," Cook commented in noting how the railroad history center helped organize volunteers to make masks, used their facility as a drop-off site, and worked with others to distribute masks and other PPE to those who could not access them. "This is the kind of commitment and creativity we see from our local nonprofits all the time."

The latest set of grants were designed to help nonprofits make investments that would enable them to finish out the year strong and prepare to thrive in 2021. Those receiving grants included:

- Arc Mid-Michigan to directly assist students and adults with developmental disabilities;
- DeVries Nature Conservancy to make up for several cancelled fundraising events;
- Friends of the Shiawassee River to expand virtual and online educational offerings for students;
- Girls on the Run to overcome COVID-related difficulties in providing empowerment programs;
- Lebowsky Center for the Performing Arts to make technology upgrades;
- Shiawassee Arts Center to continue their partnership with the Shiawassee Council on Aging to provide art activities for seniors in their residences;
- SafeCenter to help manage the delays and difficult accounting of federal grant programs;
- Shiawassee Family YMCA to serve as a community hub for food distribution and programming;
- Shiawassee Humane Society to draw up plans for facility upgrades;
- Shiawassee Regional Chamber to support memberships for local nonprofits;
- Voices for Children for operating costs and building improvements.

The funding from the Cook Family Foundation is less than what local nonprofit organizations collected on Giving Tuesday. The collaborative Raise Up Shiawassee campaign resulted in donations of more than $100,000 from individuals and local businesses. Donations can still be made online at www.raiseUPshiawassee.org through the end of the year.

All of the nonprofits receiving grants serve Shiawassee County residents, and many have deep roots in the community. "Our region has a tremendous group of nonprofits with active volunteers and committed board members," observed Tom Cook, "They add greatly to the strength of our community and the quality of life for all of us."

The Cook Family Foundation operates a Nonprofit Capacity Building program which provides consulting advice, technical assistance, training, and strategic planning to Shiawassee-based nonprofits. "I would like to give special recognition to the Executive Directors and other nonprofit staff who have not only survived 2020, but have found ways to advance the mission of their organization in very difficult circumstances."

The Cook Family Foundation was established in 1979 by Donald and Florence-etta Cook to serve as both a resource for the Shiawassee region and a catalyst for positive change. The Foundation also invests in educational programs and provides scholarships for area students to attend the University of Michigan.

Michigan Department of Ag and Rural Development Announces Grant Opportunities for County Fairs

submitted by Jennifer Holton

LANSING, Mich. – The Michigan Department of Agriculture and Rural Development announced this year's competitive grant cycle for the state's county fairs to make building and other capital improvements to their fairground facilities. Additionally, grants are available for associations or other organized events hosting fairs or expositions showing livestock and commodities. Both grant proposals must be received by MDARD no later than 5 p.m. on Monday, March 15, 2021.

The capital improvement program provides additional funds for county fair officials to help make needed improvements to their fairground facilities; including but not limited to structural improvements or other renovations to buildings.

The shows and expositions grants provide financial support for awards in the form of premiums or promotional activities of the livestock and commodity expositions, fairs, and festivals.

Proposals will be reviewed by an evaluation committee as part of the competitive grant process.

Eligible applicants include fairs that are incorporated under Act 80 of 1855 or county owned and operated fairs operating under Act 11 of 1929 and that have submitted all required year-end reports for the prior three years.

Livestock expositions hosting expos must meet the required number of exhibitors.

For detailed program information, application form, and submission criteria, please visit www.michigan.gov/mdard-grants or contact Cinda Karlik or 517-290-8114. Proposals must be received via email to KarlikC@michigan.gov by no later than 5 p.m. on March 15, 2021.

We would like to thank the Ovid-Elsie Student Body & Community for the support and love you have shared with our family. Knowing so many of you came to Bens processional means more to us than you know.

The memorial light service held at the OE high school was perfect for honoring Ben. We cannot thank those who organized and helped with the service enough. So many of Bens classmates & friends from OE, AIS and surrounding schools came to honor Ben and we would love to thank each of you for doing so.

Thank You again from the family of Benjermin Adam Humrich, Mark, Leah and Joe Humrich.

Dear Tamma,
Thank you for sharing your heartfelt perspective.
Readers: President Joe Biden, Jr has been inaugurated as our President of the United States. His number one priority is to eradicate this virus in our country. Pres. Biden has challenged us to wear a mask for the next 100 days when around others and has given us a 100 day promise to vaccinate every person in our country. "It's About Time...Isn't It?"

"Therefore be careful how you walk, not as unwise men, but as wise, making the most of your time, because the days are evil (Ephesians 5:15-16)."

On April 18, 1955, a man who understood Time better than anyone, with perhaps the most dazzling intellect ever, could not stop Time's steady advance and got swallowed up by it. That man was Albert Einstein, the father of Quantum Physics.

Einstein figured out the space-time continuum that led to the Atomic Age, won the Nobel Prize, and laid the cornerstone for modern science. Despite his renown, Albert literally (and theoretically) proved that Time waits for no man, something we're forced to admit every New Year's Eve.

I guess it's necessary to recognize Time each January, but I've never understood making resolutions. Lose weight. Stop smoking. Start exercising. Why? If we're honest, and take the 100-year viewpoint, resolutions to help us live longer, look better, or improve ourselves are all futile attempts to beat Time and its ravages. We need to conquer Death, not delay it, but that's impossible, right?

Well, there's another man with an even more dazzling intellect than Einstein, who was the first to actually swallow up Time and Death. In his letter to the Colossians, the Apostle Paul called Jesus "the invisible God" and "the firstborn from the dead."

"He is the image of the invisible God, the first-born of all creation. For by Him all things were created, both in the heavens and on earth, visible and invisible, whether thrones or dominions or rulers or authorities—all things have been created by Him and for Him. And He is before all things, and in Him all things hold together. He is also head of the body, the church; and He is the beginning, the first-born from the dead; so that He Himself might come to have first place in everything. For it was the Father's good pleasure for all the fullness to dwell in Him, and through Him to reconcile all things to Himself, having made peace through the blood of His cross...."

The mirror proves we're all losing the race with Time. Resolutions are only a stop-gap measure. You can lose weight, but Time will still swallow you up too. Isn't it wiser to make the most of your time by investigating the claims of the only man who conquered Death? Maybe resolve to read just one of the four Gospels this year.

In 2016, I went to Israel on a 2-week writing assignment that required a hundred decisions—flights, expenses, tour guides, hotels, passports, and restaurants. It took weeks of planning. That was a trip I "hoped" to take, but you have a definite April 18th trip that Time silently screams in your ear every New Year's Eve. How ironic to ignore that warning and just hope your permanent departure ends with a reservation. If Jesus is alive, perhaps your resolution should be to make peace with Him and give Jesus "first place in everything." After all, it's about Time...isn't it?

A Little Common Sense

by Crystal Mitchell

Thus far it has not been a good week.....good being a variable. I know that it is good that I'm alive and healthy....my family members are healthy and active and my bills are paid. I seem to be having more disappointments than normal. A little bit of caution is necessary otherwise we wouldn't notice the warning signs of life. Caution is needed for living a normal life.....look both ways before crossing the street and pay attention to your vehicle warning lights (so that you don't get stranded somewhere). Make sure that you pay your bills so that your heat or electricity isn't shut off. These are minimal but necessary and normal fears. What concerns me the most are those that the media plays on and ones that they ignore? Such as England suspending the covid 19 inoculations because twenty-nine people have died from the shots.....I believe if you check you will find out that fifty-five people have died in United States for the same reason. Check into the CDC site and do a bit of digging. And people are still lining up for the shots.....I think that I will wait until the vaccine is safer.

I have one prescription that I take daily which is not a bad thing. I have only one thyroid gland that works or has worked since I was in my late teens. Funny how one little gland can wreck such havoc if untreated. I get very lethargic at times and can't seem to get into gear. It is okay to coast along at times but not for long. When I get into that coasting situation I'm walking around like a lump of coal and have a very hard time focusing. I believe that I'm one of those folks that the very creative have based their zombie characters upon....without the violent tendencies. Also I don't get much done and don't even have the energy to read a book.....then my blood is tested and the meds are changed. I am fortunate (blessed) to have good medical insurance.

I talked to my daughter last night about Ralph's recovery after being shot in the leg and then having his leg amputated. Ralph is one of my rescue cats that came around here a couple of years ago, after we finally tamed him down, he went up to "Gratiot Animals In Need" and was neutered. Now we know that he is about nine years old and is bouncing back beautifully. He is a light manila color with very long shaggy hair and is maneuvering well after his surgery. Ralph is very friendly now and adores all the attention that he is getting even though he is spending his time moving up the pecking order at Diane and Brent's.

I have been thinning out the contents of my unused rooms. I believe that after rearranging my bathroom storage and filtering through the excess stored in my bedroom that I have compiled five boxes of clothes and filled three white garbage bags with a mix of crocheted thread, yarn, and some jewelry. I also have a stack of heavy denim jeans that are one or two sizes smaller than needed. I will hold onto them a bit longer and work at getting into them by this spring. Do you realize that it is almost time to put in my seed order for my garden? It is a good thing that I have made some wire mesh tops for my grow boxes so the seeds will have a chance to become plants before the little hellions get into them. The aluminum foil is helping my spider plants and mother-in-law's tongue but the little varmints are chawing off the new shoots. I wish that I had a spray that didn't hurt either the cats or the plants and wasn't offensive to us humans. It is time to do some more researching....I'm putting some round toothpicks into the pots and hope that they cause enough discomfort and keep the cats out. I wonder if putting hot sauce on the spider plant leaves would work. I also wonder if draping the plants with cheese cloth would help....

May your misfortunes be minor and may your blessings be many. Enjoy the sunrises and sunsets, they can be quite spectacular out here in the country. Be healthy and God bless.

Take the 100-Day Challenge Wear A Mask

Dear Andy,

I have been wearing PPE equipment 12 hours a day at work and a mask every place I go where others will be present. I am not sure why being considerate to others for the common good is now being mocked by some who are calling it "living in fear" but it needs to stop!!! When I wear a mask over my nose and mouth in public, I want you to know the following:

- I am educated enough to know that I could be asymptomatic and still give you the virus.
- No, I do not "live in fear" of the virus; I just want to be part of the solution, not the problem.
- No, I do not feel like the government "controls me." I feel like I am an adult contributing to the security in our society and I want to teach others the same.
- If we could all live with the consideration of others in mind, the whole world would be a much better place.
- Wearing a mask does not make me look weak, scared, stupid or even "controlled." It makes me look caring and responsible.

When you think about your appearance, discomfort, or other people's opinion of you, imagine a loved one – a child, father, mother, grandparent, aunt, uncle or even a stranger – placed on a ventilator, struggling to breathe, alone without you or any family member allowed at their bedside when they die...Ask yourself if you could have helped save their life---just by wearing a mask.

If you think the stats are wrong or the virus is not deadly...think again...please don't wait until you are sick or a family member dies before you believe. I promise you...it is real.

Vehicle maintenance schedules vary depending on manufacturer recommendations. In addition, the way a car is driven and the environment it's driven in can dictate if routine maintenance like oil changes needs to occur more frequently or if belts and hoses need to be replaced sooner than manufacturers recommend.

Many people drive in ways that align with routine maintenance schedules. However, drivers who put excessive wear and tear on their vehicles may have to follow a “severe” maintenance schedule. According to the automotive information site Car Gurus, many manufacturers adhere to a 30-60-90 schedule, meaning certain items need to be inspected, changed or replaced at 30,000, 60,000 and 90,000 miles. Certain vehicle parts wear out at predictable intervals, while others, such as rubber gaskets, windshield washer blades and tires, will degrade at irregular intervals.

It is generally recommended to speak with a mechanic and discuss driving habits to ensure vehicles operate efficiently and at peak capacity. The following are some conditions that may necessitate frequent maintenance.

• Urban driving: Stop-and-go traffic in an urban setting can wear cars out more quickly than highway driving. Experts say lubricants found in motor oil break down rapidly under these and other conditions, including especially hot temperatures.

• Short trips: Frequent, short trips can take a toll on a vehicle. Again, this may be a problem for those who reside in cities or bustling suburbs. Short trips of no more than five miles can contribute to an accumulation of water vapor that dilutes motor oil and adversely affects its efficacy.

• Heavy loads: Advanced Auto Parts says transporting or towing heavy loads can put more wear and tear on a vehicle. Loads can include cargo or passengers.

• Dusty or salty environments: Dust can accumulate in air filters and clog internal engine components. Similarly, living close to the coast and salt water also can cause car parts to rust or degrade quickly.

• Extreme temperature conditions: People who reside in extremely cold or extremely hot climates may find that their vehicles have to work that much harder to operate, reducing the life span of automotive fluids, parts (especially car batteries) and the overall vehicle unless action is taken.

For those who frequently encounter these severe conditions, switching to a severe maintenance schedule with the guidance of an automotive service shop can help. The added cost of more frequent fluid changes and other maintenance can be recuperated by fewer breakdowns and the reduced need for potentially costly repairs.

Car Care Checklist

Oil Change Many motorists believe their cars' oil should be changed every 3,000 miles, however most late-model vehicles now can go 5,000 to 7,000 miles between oil changes. Check your owner's manual and get on a routine to good car care.

Tires Check tire pressures and tread depth. Check the pressure on all the tires—including the spare—with a quality gauge when the tires are cold. Be sure to look for recommended pressure on the driver's door jamb and NOT the tire wall!

Battery Ensure the battery cable connections are tight, and the terminals are free from corrosion. If the battery is more than three years old, it's a good idea to have it tested to determine how much life it has left.

Wiper Blades Wiper blades should completely clear the glass with each swipe. Make sure the windshield washer reservoir is filled.

Stock up on Vehicle Breakdown Supplies

Unforeseen situations can crop up at any time. Anyone who has had a roadside breakdown in their car understands this. A flat tire or an engine malfunction is something no driver wants to experience, but those with a well-stocked vehicle emergency kit and breakdown strategy can get through most situations rather easily.

A 2017 survey from AAA found that 40 percent of drivers in the United States are not ready to handle a typical roadside emergency breakdown. The organization estimates it helps some seven million motorists get back on the road each summer. A well-equipped roadside emergency kit may help drivers get their vehicles back on the road on their own.

- First aid kit: The first aid kit will celebrate its 133rd birthday in 2021. The Johnson & Johnson company began commercializing first aid kits in 1888. Having a first aid kit in the car to treat minor injuries can be helpful in the event of an accident or even after injuring oneself during a breakdown.

- Fire extinguisher: Cars are full of various mechanical parts and are susceptible to catching on fire. The National Fire Protection Association says vehicle fire extinguishers need to be rated for Class B and C fires.

- Jumper cables: A weak or dead battery is often the culprit in breakdowns. Jumper cables enable drivers to get a charge from another motorist, and may help get a person back on the road quickly. If possible, get a set of cables that also comes with safety gloves and heavy duty clamps, offers Defensive Driving Online, a defensive driving course.

- Mobile phone/charger: A mobile phone is essential for calling for assistance, but the phone is only useful if it's charged.

- Blanket: Keep a blanket in the trunk or another storage area. Should the vehicle die in cold weather, that blanket can help keep passengers warm until assistance arrives.

- Basic tools: Tools like a screwdriver, ratchet set and wrench may enable drivers to complete minor repairs. Tools also should include tire-changing gear, such as a jack and lug nut remover.

- Traction aid: Non-clumping kitty litter or sand can provide the traction needed to get off of a slippery area of roadway.

- Flashlight: A flashlight can help keep you visible and able to see your surroundings in dark conditions.

- Flares: Should a breakdown occur in the dark, flares can alert other drivers.

- Snacks and water: Water and food that stores well, such as emergency rations, granola bars or trail mix, can quell hunger pangs and provide an energy boost while waiting for help.

- Rope/bungee cords/tarp: These items can be used in various situations to secure a vehicle.

While drivers can gather these items separately, many companies offer all-in-one vehicle emergency kits. A safety kit is essential for all drivers.

Laingsburg Area Food Bank Thankful for Community Support

submitted by Linda Culpepper

From the awesome people who stop on Monday afternoons or Thursday nights and hand us cash for the Food Bank, to the Laingsburg United Methodist Church which houses the LAFB, we are thankful for all of you who have helped us get over some hurdles this year.

Volunteers who comprise the LAFB Executive Board would like to sincerely thank all of our supporters. For your generous cash donations, for food donations from individuals and Laingsburg Business & Community Association members, for your support over the holiday season, for your support today.

At the end of 2019, we weren't sure how we were going to make ends meet. And then we asked for your help. Not only did you give in January, February, March, and April, you are still giving today! We are so thankful for you!!!

In 2020, with your help, we fed 2,118 individuals which equaled a total of 273 families! We also saw 15 new families served. Total meals for the year were 44,381. We distributed 5,686 Personal Care items plus anything that was donated for our clients like the turkeys and hams we received for Christmas and the big good cereals brought in every month by an individual.

With your support we were able to help so many people last year. Thank you so much!

Our Mission: "We seek to bring a measure of love and peace through sharing the blessings of food with those who are in need. We see in our neighbors the face of God and act with resolve to ensure that basic needs of life are met. We do this through an efficient food acquisition and distribution system, and community outreach according to God's provisions."

MSU Dean's List

Riley Quinn Gugel of Laingsburg has been named to the Fall MSU Dean's List in Social Science, Psychology.

Moosooo Over Snowman: Charlie Green of Elsie built this Snow Cow for his Mom Grace Green. The Snow Cow sculpture was built just outside her window at Welcome Home in Owosso for her to enjoy. Charlie's sculpture talents also include working with sand as he has built Sand Cows at Marco Island.

Sierra Price is Area Student of the Week - Eyes Medical Career Ahead

LAINGSBURG — Sierra Price, Laingsburg High School senior, has been honored as a Shiawassee area "Student of the Week."

The honor is bestowed by the Owosso Argus-Press, and Argus staff writer Greyson Steele reported the story.

Growing up, Sierra witnessed her grandfather's trials and tribulations with mantle cell lymphoma and lung cancer, a nearly two-decade battle he ultimately lost in March 2020.

Her grandfather's resilience, and the care and attention provided by hospital staff throughout his fight, has stuck with the now-18-year-old, leading her to pursue a career of her own in the medical field. Price will enroll in the nursing program at Northern Michigan University this fall.

"I just loved how, not only were the doctors there for him, but the nurses, the nurses were always there, especially in hospice," Price said. "They were there for not only him, but for the family, for us. I am really interested in caring for other people and I feel like that's the best way to do it."

At Laingsburg High School, Price maintains a robust schedule, tackling advanced placement courses in calculus and literature, and college-level independent study courses in psychology and chemistry, while maintaining a 4.0 GPA. The 18-year-old also participates in Laingsburg High School's marching, concert and jazz bands, competes on the girls cross country and soccer teams, and works part-time at Tammy's Bakery and Cafe.

And while the coronavirus pandemic has altered Price's senior year, with classes switching back-and-forth from in-person to online, she remains upbeat. If anything, the experience will serve her well in future years, she said.

"I feel like there are some unique benefits (this year), like I'm starting to learn time management for myself and that's definitely something that I'm going to need in college," Price said, adding "communication with teachers is definitely way more important this year," another exercise she believes will benefit her in the long term.

Price isn't solely focused on her own progress at LHS, however; during her sophomore year, she helped launch a free tutoring program for students in need of assistance.

"I started to become more aware of my peers around me, and that some of my classmates, and even my friends, were struggling in classes that I was excelling in," Price said. "This really, really bothered me; I didn't think it was fair that my peers were trying so hard in their classes and that they had no opportunity to reach out for help."

Enlisting the help of a few friends who felt the same way, Price set to work on boosting her peers academically. Even with instruction transitioning online at times, tutors have continued to meet with students via Zoom, she said.

"We have helped grades rise from a 'D' to an 'A,' and test scores from 50 percent to 90 percent," Price said. "We meet with the students as much as they need, usually once or twice a week. This year is definitely different, but students are still encouraged to reach out to our school counselor to be assigned a tutor."

For her academic and extracurricular efforts, Price received a full-ride academic scholarship to Northern Michigan University. Price said she was drawn to NMU "not only because of the amazing academics and nursing program," but also because of the "pure beauty" of the Upper Peninsula.

"I love that I can still have that downtown feel while also having so much nature close by," she said. "I'm really looking forward to hiking, hammocking, fishing and spending more time outdoors."

After working for a while as a registered nurse, Price said she intends to go back to school to obtain her master's degree, with the goal of becoming a women's health nurse practitioner.

Michelle Cousineau, a math and science teacher who's had Price in class throughout her four years at Laingsburg High School, believes the teen is well-prepared for whatever lies ahead.

"Sierra has great attention to detail, and always produces thoughtful work," Cousineau said. "She is very caring and supportive of her friends and family, and is willing to help out in any situation, whether that is explaining a concept to classmates, tutoring fellow students, leading her section in band, or supporting her teammates. Sierra is a genuine, honest, intelligent leader, and these qualities will continue to benefit her in the future."

Rep. Frederick: Governor's Vetoes of Nursing Home Measures Hurt Michigan's Most Vulnerable Residents

submitted by Christine Guenther

State Rep. Ben Frederick of Owosso today expressed deep disappointment in the governor's decision to issue pocket vetoes of two measures that would have helped address staffing shortages in Michigan nursing homes and better protect the vulnerable people who live in the facilities.

Frederick said he led the Legislature in approving House Bill 4098 to help combat the health-care worker shortage and improve medication error rates. Frederick's legislation would have allowed specialized aides to provide regular medications to nursing home patients under the supervision of trained nursing staff, as is done in numerous other states. The measure was actively supported by the statewide association representing nursing home providers.

Frederick also backed Senate Bill 77, which would have allowed nursing home residents the option to install cameras or other electronic monitoring devices in their own rooms to help protect against abuse and neglect. The governor chose not to sign either bill into law within the 14-day deadline, resulting in pocket vetoes of both measures. No explanation as to the reason for the vetoes were provided.

White Squirrels

If you are in the Michigan woods and confronted by a white squirrel there is a lot to ponder about this little anomaly of a bird seed thief. First of all the mere chance of sighting a white squirrel is about 1 in 100,000 and those odds are only that low if a gray squirrel population is present and the habitat is suburbia. The squirrel likely spotted is a morph which is a gray squirrel with some genetic coding that is primarily white skinned with some black pigmentation around the face including the eyes. Sometimes the squirrel may even have a piebald appearance. Now if you are looking at a squirrel with pink eyes and it is a true albino then you are witnessing a 1 in 500,00 sighting as albinos comprise about 20 percent of the white squirrel population.

So why are white squirrels so rare to spot? First the genetic odds are always working against the odds but such white born mammals also become predatory targets as they have no natural camouflage unless they can make it to snowfall but of course that is only seasonal. However, they seem to be spotted and survive in suburban environments due to reduced predatory pressure and possibly be protected by ordinances that restrict urban hunting. If you happen to see a white squirrel it is believed to bring good luck that day but also be a sign of things to come and that you should prepare for change. While there are no specific colonies or municipalities in Michigan filled with white squirrels there are often sightings in the following counties; Wayne, Oakland, Monroe, Washtenaw, Macomb, Ingham, and Livingston. If you are looking for road trips to communities claiming to be white squirrel attraction of the world then consider Exeter, Ont., Olney, Il., Kenton, TN., Marionville, MO., and Brevard, NC.

There is one last thing the Weekly Sportsman would like to ponder with readers. The Annual Laingsburg Rabbit Squirrel Derby all red fox or grey squirrels are worth one ticket, black (grey) squirrels earn two tickets, but then what about white squirrels if they are entered?

Wharton Center Presents Live Virtual Concert - Morgan James: Magnetic Soul

submitted by Tara Peplowski

EAST LANSING, MI — Join Morgan James and her husband, guitarist Doug Wamble, for a virtual performance on Friday, February 12, 2021 at 8pm. The duo will perform live from their home studio as they celebrate the one-year anniversary of her album "Memphis Magnetic." They will play some of their favorite songs off the album as well as classic covers.

Tickets to the virtual concert are on sale now and will be processed through Wharton Center's live-stream partner, Eventbrite.com. To purchase tickets, visit <https://tinyurl.com/wcmorganjames> or the Wharton Center website at www.whartoncenter.com.

Morgan James is a classically trained vocalist, Broadway veteran and recording artist. Recently, Ms. James premiered a song cycle for voice and orchestra entitled Song Of The River, written for her by frequent collaborator and conductor Teddy Abrams, with the Louisville Orchestra.

As a recording artist, James has released seven albums of music including her newest album of original soul music entitled Memphis Magnetic. Her videos with Postmodern Jukebox and her own YouTube channel have garnered over 200 million views.

Elsie American Legion Post 502

Back in September of 2020, Elsie American Legion Post 502 Commander Gene Nethaway created a Certificate of Appreciation to Honor World War II veterans on the 75th Anniversary of the End of World War II. Certificates were issued to surviving veterans or surviving family members locally. He also sent out copies of the certificate to other Veteran Service Organizations and elected Representatives to consider issuing in their areas.

Approximately a year ago, World War II Veteran, Mr. Gerald Shaw from Ashley was in attendance at one of our monthly Music Jamboree and Gene promised him he would create a certificate for him. Due to some health issues and COVID restrictions, Gerald has not been issued his certificate. His certificate has been prepared and will be presented to him soon. Gerald served during World War II in the United States Army in the 11th U.S. Army Airborne Division. "Gerald is alive and well but does have a hard time with his sight. If you happen to see him, please say hello and thank him for his service. His family is very proud of him and so are we," explained Post Commander Nethaway.

Local Schools See Continued COVID-19 Cases

LAINGSBURG — Local schools continue to report cases of since in-school learning returned on January 11.

Laingsburg Community Schools on Jan. 12 reported a high school student tested positive.

Chesaning, Ovid-Elsie, Morrice, Perry, Laingsburg and Owosso all resumed at least some in-person learning Jan. 11. Durand schools resumed classes last Monday.

The Michigan Department of Health and Human Services said Shiawassee County now has had 3,236 COVID-19 cases and 64 deaths.

Big Brothers Big Sisters Asks Us All to Make the BIG Resolution

submitted by Persis Sopariwala

LANSING — Big Brothers Big Sisters Michigan Capital Region this week announced January is National Mentoring Month.

The group is recognizing the volunteers who are serving as mentors ("bigs") to community children ("littles"). In addition, the group is encouraging Clinton, Eaton, Ingham, Ionia and Shiawassee County residents to make a resolution, and consider volunteering as a Big in the new year.

"Our youths' needs have not dissipated," Big Brothers Big Sisters Program Director Jamie Griggs said. "A pandemic doesn't remove the barriers that our youth face on a daily basis; it actually compounds the current barriers. The call for mentors for our youth is greater than it's ever been. Our youth needs you. Big Brothers Big Sisters needs you."

Within Big Brothers Big Sisters' five-county service area, there are approximately 90 children who have completed the application process for the program, and are waiting to be matched with a big brother or big sister.

In order to help them stay connected and supported, more adult volunteers are needed.

"Bigs are personally and thoughtfully matched with a Little in their community, and can share the kinds of activities they already like to do," Griggs said. "Bigs and Littles are currently meeting virtually two to four times per month, and are provided with regular match support from the Big Brothers Big Sisters staff."

Clinton, Eaton, Ingham, Ionia, and Shiawassee County residents can get involved during National Mentoring Month by contacting Big Brothers Big Sisters via email at 0196inquiries@bbbsmcr.org or phone (517) 372-0160.

For more information, visit bbbsmcr.org.
