McClintock Park Amphitheater Grand Opening

by Karen Anderson, Laingsburg Correspondent

LAINGBURG - On Friday, June 18, 2021 on a sweltering hot summer day, the temperature dropped to 81 degrees for the evening dedication and entertainment at the McClintock Park Amphitheater Grand Opening. There were reports of the crowd number was at least 400 people and nearly another 100 active participants to make this grand event spectacular. The Master of Ceremonies Tom Turek, a well-admired figure of the community, performed an outstanding job of introductions and Joni Starr who kept the program flowing smoothly.

After months of City Council meetings, committee meetings, and writing grants for funding, Paula Willoughby dedicated many hours to raise and coordinate the logistics to obtain funds and worked with planners to build a magnificent addition to the McClintock City Park. Today was the day of recognition and appreciation of all the hard work of so many people who made this event successful. The Amphitheater was designed and built by local architect Bob Ford of Laingsburg. Keith Kingsbury was the photographer who shot dozens of photographs for the historical posterity.

Prior to the main program, Food trucks were available for the public included the Dairy Den, Michigan Vegan and Got Smoke BBQ. The pavilion and lawn activities were coordinated by the LARC members. Sponsors which included Hometown Child Care, Just for Fun, Laingsburg Recycler's and Memorial Hospital.

Tom Turek, MC welcomed the crowd and invited all to assemble around the Amphitheater to begin the dedication of the McClintock Park Amphitheater. First on the program was Laingsburg Community Singers. Turek introduced Steven Easterling, LCS Music Director and Director of the Laingsburg Community Singers.

Easterling opened the program with the announcement of what an honor it is to be able perform on the new Amphitheater steps and be on stage for the first time since their 2019 appearance at Carnegie Hall. The singers opened with "American the Beautiful" and closed with "There's a River in Judea". Some of their songs during their performance included, "The Circle will be Unbroken" and "We Sing Because We are Happy." According to comments from people attending, "The singers set the stage for a beautiful musical evening."

Celebratory guest comments from Rep. Ben Frederick, included a special "Congratulations" to all the people who contribute to make the community a wonderful place to raise their families and make their home. Ms. Carlee Knot represented Senator Gary Peters office. She set the tone of the evening speaking about the long incredible history of community of Laingsburg. The Historical connotations from both speakers and review of the 'berg' history added to the Patriotic theme of the evening.

Laingsburg Mayor Culpepper spoke on behalf of City Council that this celebration is for the community whom they serve. Culpepper stated, "It's about the people who choose to live here and work to pay their taxes to make this community what it is..." Generations of families have resided in this area for 100's of years. He stressed the feeling of gratefulness towards the many people who teach our children, provide services for each other and run businesses to make this a successful and safe place to live and play."

Next, a special tribute was given to the historical plaque that stands between the Pavilion and Amphitheater. The marker was unveiled by Paula Willoughby and Mark Brink representing an impressive history of Laingsburg.

Turek invited the guest speakers, members of the City Council, LARK members and the planning commission, Bob Ford and the contractors who built the Amphitheater, and the community leaders to pose with for the Ribbon Cutting Ceremony. A special recognition was given to everyone who made this event possible. Mayor Culpepper and Paula Willoughby had the honor of cutting the ribbon.

Father Bob Bachik of St. Isadore Church gave the invocation, as The Jack Clarkson Band played Curtis Mayfield's classic "People Get Ready." Father Bob is leaving Laingsburg for another position in the church but professed his love of Laingsburg and plans to retire in this wonderful community. That, in itself is a tribute to the kindness and love that resides in this city.

The Jack & Tess Clarkson Band, with special guest stars included Kathy Ford, Motown voice and notorious keyboard musician; Bronnie Brown, formerly a USAF Band horn player and Bill Fuller, a Nashville favorite on the guitar was the musical entertainment scheduled for the evening. Many others shared in the joy of music. Autumn Brown, LHS student sang a Taylor Swift and a Linda Ronstadt song in her beautiful voice that echoed in the park from the new bandstand stage. Talent was enjoyed by all when Jen West's "Spirit Expressions" dancers performed, and Laingsburg students stole the show when they danced to "This Thing Called Love" by Queen.

Other musical guests included Dr. Barbara Gurden, local family physician, sang "Doctor, Doctor" with the band. Memorial Health Care, Becky Dhlke sang "Lean on Me." It was a hot night in Laingsburg. Talent and Heat. Memorial Health Care was the event sponsor for the evening. A appreciative tribute to first responders and medical personnel was part of their dedication. In celebrating the Amphitheater, a special recognition of the LBCA, specifically, Jody, Paula, Lori and Gail and Joni for their contributions to the music and activities they support in the City of Laingsburg.

Clarkson made a special tribute to Mike Putman for his years of bringing music to Laingsburg and to Greg Beavers, of Pine Hills Golf Course for having outdoor concerts for the last two years. A special thank you was presented to Ronda and John Liskey for patronizing and organizing the band shell concerts for the month of July. If there is rain on one of the Friday nights, an announcement will be posted on Face Book that the music will be at the Clarkson Barn, one mile south on Hollister, off Round Lake Road. Lots of parking.

The Laingsburg Community Singers took to the stage.

Jack & Tess Clarkson Band also performed with Kathy Ford

A Little Common Sense

by Crystal Mitchell

I have spent another day not getting anything done at home. An again I'm on the exhausted side of life but my glutes have improved greatly. The good news being that the food trailer sold out again but we did make it almost to our scheduled closing time. There were only eight Kogel hotdogs left and maybe enough French fries for four side orders. Our customers came at a steady pace and that kept us up and moving. It is a good that we are working better as a team......translation we are becoming more efficient. I have learned when not to be helpful...and when to be patient. Like most Moms, I tend to be overly helpful and it is not always necessary and it could lead to small disasters like spilling gasoline while filling the generator.

Thursday will be a busy day, the co-op order will be coming in and needs to be picked up, transported, and put away. I have one or two different bulletins to be put together, inserts made and delivered....won't know for sure until I make it into the office. I also have a Farmer's Market in St Louis to finish my baking, bag it and tag it. Some folks are expecting rhubarb bread, others want Hummingbird bread and a few would be happy if I can get more yeast breads done. I know that I do not have the capacity to please everyone so maybe I might just please myself.

described in today's paper in would like to go see it as so him several questions about your house your describing. If one sets their highest better things or the latest thin will always be unfulfilled. A thing- computer, phone, tv, I by something either better on But it's not only material

I am looking forward to catching up with myself this weekend. I don't have any open houses or showers to attend. My yard will be ecstatic when I get it mowed and possibly trimmed. Every day I have managed to pull a few weeds and this alteration is improving the appearance of my small piece of paradise. The cluster bell flowers that are in blossom under the Hawthorne tree are very appealing and brighten my day. The yellow primroses add another touch of sunshine to my day and the deep pink floribunda roses add a gentle peace. I did say that this is my small piece of paradise....sadly the catalpa trees have lost their glorious blossoms and which are now scattered across the yard

This morning I was awakened by the sounds of cat fight and my brain kicked into alert mode at 3:45 AM......my body was not so sure that it was the right thing to do. I ended staying up, throwing in a load of clothes, scrubbing on the air vents that go above the grill, and making some Hummingbird and some blueberry peach quick breads. I don't know where they get the quick from because these specialty breads usually take longer than making my yeast breads. That being said, the yeast breads do need the time to rise and poked down a couple of times to form some wonderful earthy loaves and the quick (non-yeast breads) are usually out of the oven and cooling in about seventy-five minutes...hence quick.

Have you ever noticed that sometimes the hands on the clock are moving faster than you are? This morning I finished kneading my onion bread dough, and cleaned up the excess flour and then felt guilty because I could have spent a few more moments and kneaded the flour into the dough. It would appear that I rushed the process. Granted my shoulders were a bit angry this morning, it probably had to do with getting the generator unloaded last night. Don't get me wrong, I did have help but that machine is heavy and hard to move. Thankfully Brent was there to give me the helping hand that I needed.

The Hummingbird bread just exited the oven and I can now turn it off for a short while. Hopefully, I will have the time needed to get to the office and finish up things there. Stranger things have been known to happen. I know that I must be bagged, tagged, and loaded by 12:30 this afternoon when I should be on the road to St Louis. If truly necessary I can tag the last two quick breads when I get to the market.......for now I will be satisfied to finish working with my muse now. May God bless you daily and may your outlook be filled with beauty and truth and a great deal of insight.

Religious Thoughts

by Chris Hearn

In Philippians 4:11-13, Paul writes, "...I have learned to be content whatever the circumstances. I know what it is to be in need, and I know what it is to have plenty. I have learned the secret of being content in any and every situation, whether well fed or hungry, whether living in plenty or in want. I can do all this through him who gives me strength."

There's a story about a man who became envious of his friends because they had larger and more luxurious homes. So he listed his house with a real estate firm, planning to sell it and to purchase a more impressive home. Shortly afterward, as he was reading the classified section of the newspaper, he saw an ad for a house that seemed just right. He promptly called the realtor and said, "A house described in today's paper is exactly what I'm looking for. I would like to go see it as soon as possible!" The agent asked him several questions about it and then replied, "But sir, that's your house your describing."

If one sets their highest aspirations on having bigger and better things or the latest thing as their highest goal in life, they will always be unfulfilled. After all, the latest version of one thing- computer, phone, tv, Ipad, watch, is soon to be replaced by something either better or at least newer.

But it's not only material things that we can desire. We can desire to have good health, more friends, a spouse, etc.

Of course, none of these things are wrong in and of themselves. Not even the desire to have a certain amount of money and material things. The problem comes when we make them our god. When we will do anything to get them.

Paul gives the Philippians and us some very practical advice; to be contented wherever we are in life. Wherever God has placed us, we need to be content there. This is the start. The foundation. We need to be humble and thank God for what He has given us.

From there, it's okay to desire things- a place to live, food, friends, etc. For example, if you are offered a promotion at work and it looks like it is God's will- take it! If a different job opens up and it looks like the Lord is behind it- make the move! If there is an improvement in some area of your life and with prayer it seems that God is calling you to take that step- go ahead and take it.

The main thing is for us to be sure that we are following the Lord first and foremost and that the Lord is truly our God.

As Paul writes, "And whatever you do, whether in word or deed, do it all in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to God the Father through him." - Colossians 3:17

Rep. Filler Spearheads Plan to Further Protect Michigan Seniors

submitted by Christina Guenthner

State Rep. Graham Filler and other state officials today announced a plan to combat elder abuse and make sure vulnerable adults are not taken advantage of by those who are trusted to care for them.

The Michigan Elder Abuse Task Force identified several failures of the state's guardianship system, the process used to maintain the trusts and assets of people who do not have relatives able to maintain them. Filler, a member of the task force and chair of the House Judiciary Committee, said the legislation announced today will fix those issues and provide a number of important safeguards for the elderly and people with disabilities.

Filler pointed to one particularly egregious case in where a Macomb County couple was put under the care of professional guardians, who then used the couple's own money to install a 6-foot-tall privacy fence around their home, limiting their access to family.

"This is insanity. Elderly folks in the guardianship system should not be fenced in," Filler said. "While these guardians were eventually removed from 'caring' for this couple, we must make sure no one else is put in such a devastating situation. My promise to older folks in Michigan is that this legislature will stand with and protect you."

The legislation announced the will require increased training for professional guardians, provide procedural safeguards for the appointment of guardians, require guardians to take special precautions to protect people's property and increase transparency about the way a ward's property is being used.

The plan will be referred to the House Judiciary Committee for consideration. Filler, who chairs the committee, plans to hold hearings on the bills in the coming weeks.

Memorial Healthcare exceeds the national standards in communication with nurses, responsiveness of staff, communication about medications, cleanliness, discharge information, care transitions, and overall rating. "Our team's dedication to remain steadfast in prioritizing patient safety as we continue to battle COVID-19 is commendable," adds Long.

Spinal muscular atrophy, or SMA, is the most common cause of mortality in infants. According to the Muscular Dystrophy Association, SMA is a motor neuron disease that affects the central nervous system, peripheral nervous system and voluntary muscle movement. WebMD notes that the severity of SMA varies widely, but the disease is known to weaken muscles and can cause difficulty eating, breathing and walking. In the past, infants diagnosed with SMA typically did not survive more than two years, but the MDA notes that doctors now prefer to avoid making rigid predictions on life expectancy based strictly on age of onset.

According to the American Cancer Society, recent research has found that sleeping problems associated with cancer treatment persist in almost 40 percent of cancer survivors for up to five years after diagnosis. The 2019 study, published in the journal Sleep Medicine, also found that one-fifth of cancer survivors reported poor sleep quality at nine years after diagnosis. In fact, high sleep disturbance was reported by 51 percent of long-term cancer survivors. The researchers studied more than 1,900 long-term cancer survivors nine years after diagnosis, and participants had one of 10 common cancers, including cancers of the breast, prostate, bladder, kidney, and lung. It's especially important for cancer survivors to recognize the potential for sleep problems after successful treatment, as the Mayo Clinic notes that sufficient rest is a vital component of patients' recovery. Survivors experiencing difficulty sleeping after successful cancer treatments can discuss their issues with their physicians, who may recommend certain sleep aides or strategies to increase patients' chances of getting more restful sleep.

Versiti is the blood bank for the state of Michigan.

Wolfpack's Hailey Bila Honored on Division 3 All-State Softball Team

LANSING -- In Division 3, four area players have been named honorable mention All-Staters — Laingsburg's Hailey Bila, New Lothrop's Makayla Lienau and Brynne Birchmeier, and Chesaning's Hailey Rolfe.

Bila batted .509 through district play and scored 73 runs. The junior center fielder is committed to play at Michigan State University. Bila helped lead coach Jeff Cheadle's Wolfpack to a 32-5 overall record, including CMAC and District championships, and a trip to the Division 3 Regional Finals.

BYRON — Sarah Marvin never dreamed of becoming the all-time leading scorer at Byron High School; she only wanted to help deliver the program its first district championship.

It was a feat neither her mother, Theresa Marvin, or sister, Jessica Marvin, could accomplish when they played the Eagles, a feeling that often left a sour taste in the younger Marvin's mouth.

The 5-foot-9 senior guard/forward eclipsed 1,000 points and 1,000 rebounds for her career this season, earning Shiawassee Area Player of the Year honors for a third consecutive year, as named by the Owosso

It was Marvin's team, Byron, that bounced the Laingsburg Wolfpack out of the District Finals -- on the Wolves' home floor.

Locally, Ovid-Elsie's Caitlyn Walter and Laingsburg's Grace Graham led the way on the prestigious honor contingent, both of them named to the Second Team.

Walter led the area in 3-point shooting with 38 made trifectas. The first-team all-MMAC selection averaged 11.3 points, 1.5 assists and 2.5 steals per game for the Marauders.

Graham, a senior guard recorded 65 steals (5.4 per game). She averaged 11.5 points, 6.6 rebounds and 2.9 assists for the 8-4 Wolfpack.

Marvin joins Corunna's Payton Birchmeier as the only other three-time Argus-Press Player of the Year, and she's the only player to be named to the All-Area first team four times. first player to make the All-Area first team as a freshman in 2009,

St. Johns Lioness Club Dissolving

submitted by Brenda Terpening

Dear St. Johns community members,

We regret to inform you that after 39 years of serving the St. Johns community and supporting Lions Club International projects, our club is dissolving. This is not a choice we made but rather a decision of Lions Club International Board of Directors which voted to end the Lioness program effective June 30, 2021.

Our club members have decided not to charter a new Lions Club. However, our official sponsor, the St. Johns Lions Club, remains active and serving the community. We are happy to report the annual Easter Egg Hunt will continue under their direction, with support from several former Lionesses and other community volunteers.

Since 1981, we have held countless fundraisers and contributed many thousands of dollars to the community and to Lions-supported organizations. Some of the local organizations that have benefited from our donations include Basic Needs Center, Beacon of Hope, Clinton County CASA, Clinton County Senior Center, Habitat for Humanity, Safe Center, Special Olympics, St. Johns Baby Pantry, and more.

We have hosted or participated in numerous activities, most notably the annual Easter Egg Hunt. This year, in addition to handing out eggs in a drive-through event, we also distributed $1,000 in gift cards to support areas businesses most impacted by the COVID-19 pandemic. Another event we previously co-sponsored with the St. Johns Lions Club was the annual Pumpkin Festival that included a pumpkin decorating contest and a "Pumpkin Trot" 5K run. We also have assisted the Lions Club with its fundraisers including the White Cane Sale and food trailer sales at the Concerts in the Park series.

It has been a privilege to serve the St. Johns community and we want to thank the business community, organizations, and others who have supported us for nearly four decades. The end of the Lioness program and our club is bittersweet....we almost made it 40 years. We will miss being a part of this wonderful community, but we look forward to contributing individually in other ways

Sincerely,

Members of the St. Johns Lioness Club

Eric & Nikita Becks Dean & Carrie Hartenburg

Laurie Blackmer Cheryl Hickey

Jeff & LuAnn Cannell Cathy Kelley

Gloria Carnicom Nancy Presocki (charter member)

Pat Dickson Paul & Sandy Witgen

(And many former members who left the club for various reasons, including those who passed away while serving)

Thank you. Volunteers!

Rep. Frederick House Approves K-12 Budget, Fully Closes Funding Gap Between Districts

submitted by Christina Guenthner

State Rep. Ben Frederick and the Michigan House in a wide bipartisan vote approved a budget plan for the upcoming fiscal year with record-high investments in K-12 students.

Frederick, of Owosso, said the plan invests more in every student while finally and fully eliminating the funding gap between districts, one of his longtime goals.

"For decades, kids in smaller, rural schools – including every district I represent – have gotten less funding than those in more affluent areas," Frederick said. "I have repeatedly voted to fix this disparity and ensure all Michigan children are treated equally. No longer will students in our community be valued at hundreds of dollars less than their peers in other communities.

The plan dedicates $16.7 billion to the school aid fund up nearly 8 percent overall from the current year. All Michigan schools will receive $8,700 per student. This provides an additional $589 per student (up 7 percent) for districts currently at the minimum foundation allowance, and an additional $171 per student (up 2 percent) for schools now at the maximum guaranteed foundation allowance.

Other highlights of the plan include:

Federal COVID relief funding with equalization payments to ensure every school gets at least $1,093 in additional funding per student. More than $4 billion in federal COVID relief for schools was approved overall today, in addition to the money in the regular school aid fund for next fiscal year.

The Great Start Readiness Program receives an additional investment of $168 million to significantly increase the amount of funding per child while also adding thousands of new openings statewide.

More resources invested in special education, career and tech equipment, and many other initiatives to help give every student a better chance to thrive.

A one-time $560 million investment into the school retirement system will help ensure promised benefits get paid while freeing up money for the classroom in future

The funding measure now advances to the Senate for further consideration.

Intensions are the things you want to improve about yourself or your surroundings. They might be to eat healthier, find balance with life, to have better focus or anything else that will help improve-

Setting Intentions

by LeeAnna Woods

Licensed Therapist, Reiki Master and Owner of Healing Feather Wellness www.HealibgFeatherWellness.com (810) 339-0260

Intentions are similar to the resolutions that many people make at the end of each year. The difference is intentions are a smaller version of a resolution and always worded in a positive manner. This promotes the positive side to instill a better effective outcome when repeated.

Using an intention helps one to grow and become the best possible version of themselves. Intensions have been used for hundreds of years. They're used during yoga practices to help the student by giving them something to focus on during their poses, which allows them to hold the pose longer and with the balance and endurance needed.

Setting daily intentions can help improve focus, concentration, lower stress levels, provide positivity, balance, confidence, along with many more things.

An intention is set before doing a meditation practice so as the monkey mind wonders, the intention can redirect the mind back to the place it should be. Meditation intentions can strengthen the concentration and focusing abilities for the person practicing.

There are many different practices that setting intentions are used in. But even if you're not doing any special practice, the benefits of setting daily intentions can still be helpful for you. Rather it's one word, a phase, or sentence, it'll be unique to you as well as the benefit you

It's not hard to set an intention. Simply think of a quality that you'd like to emulate. It could be gratitude, strength, awareness of breath, or whatever you want to cultivate in your life or your surroundings.

Setting intentions can be very powerful when they're focused on throughout a full practice like in yoga or meditation. The mind will continue to be drawn towards the intention even after the practice has ended and will continually reach through the subconscious, manifesting and bringing the intention into your life.

It's a good idea to work with one intention at a time for a while, until you feel the qualities of the intention have become embedded at the degree you're happy with.

Try setting an intention for yourself by sitting comfortably with your eyes closed, thinking of and repeating the intention in your mind. Continue to do this for a few minutes or however long you'd like. You can do it as many times in a day as you want but should be done at least once a day for as long as it takes for the benefits to be seen or felt. You can even write the intention on a piece of paper and read it every morning and night. Remember to always use positivity with setting intentions.

Thanks For the Gift

by Deb Price

Ovid has only two remaining World War II veterans, Bob Wilber, who served in the Army and Bill Aldrich, a Navy Veteran. A couple weeks ago, someone left a beautiful tapestry blanket on Bill's porch. He would like to thank whomever left it for him personally. Prior to Bill making me aware of the blanket gift, he brought into my office a yearbook about the ship he was on while serving in the Navy, the U.S.S. Alcyone. Bill also shared information about VJ Day, September 2, 1945 and what he experienced on that BIG day when Japan formerly surren-

On that September 2nd day, a day when the ship's officers and crew realized the gratification in the success of their arms. The day also marked the culmination of their hopes and desires in that it was the beginning of their movement HOME. A celebration meal consisted of Cream of Tomato Soup and crackers, roast turkey, mashed potatoes & giblet gravy, cranberry sauce, baked spiced ham, sage dressing, buttered corn, oranges, grapefruit juice, apple pie, ice cream, bread, pickle relish, ice tea, candy and cigarettes. This meal was enjoyed by 35 officers and 281 crew members.

The Alcyone was a Maritime Commission C-2 type cargo vessel. It was 459 feet long with a full load displacement of 13,800 tons. She was delivered by the builders, the Sun Shipbuilding Co. of Chester, Pa. in October 1939. It was first named the Marmacgull and operated between New York and other East Coast ports and also South Africa. She was renamed the U.S.S. Alcyone in 1941. In her service to the Navy, she traveled 166,493.5 miles and was at sea for 568 days. The Alcyone sailed in 2 oceans, four seas and visited ports in five

If you wanted to talk more with Bill Aldrich about his Naval experiences, you would have to catch him early in the morning or early evening as at the age of 95, he plays golf with his buddies most days at the Emerald golf course in St Johns. And not just 9 holes, he plays 18 but admits he rides in a cart.

This beautiful tapestry blanket representing World War II American Heroes was left for Bill Aldrich at his Ovid home recently. He would like to thank the person responsible for leaving it. Please stop by so he may thank you.
